W. Phillips.

"The Slave is at War with this Nation and with every man in it; and where is the Law of Nations that has not always recognized the right of Nations ~~[illegible]~~ to take and use for their own benefit the property of those with whom they are at war?"

"If Ohio is ever abolitionized, it will be by the ~~[illegible]~~ ~~[illegible]~~ fugitive Slaves from Kentucky; their flight through the State, ~~[illegible]~~ is the best lecture, — the pattering of their feet, that's the talk."

"The Slave has the same right to take a horse ~~[illegible]~~ ~~[illegible]~~ or whatever is necessary to ensure his escape, that a drowning man has to seize a plank on the side of your boat".

P. Pillsbury said there were 12 or 14 hundred fugitive Slaves in New Bedford. mistake, say 5 or 600

"I would instigate the Slave at any time to do that which is right; and such running away is not wrong" "And a man who goes to the South, on business or otherwise, is bound to aid the Slave, even as he is bound to help a starving man, or a wretched inebriate, when he meets in y. Street."
